After two one IMP swings (one each way) and one push, this board arrived. Truly, Fleisher/Kamil did well to get to the only game that had a chance: 5D from North. However, they were unlucky to have such a creative opening leader.

Katz found a brilliant lead on this hand. He thought he needed a quick club through the king for any hope of defeating the contract. Accordingly, he led the spade nine. Nick won his king, looked at dummy, and realized what had happened. He dutifully led the nine of clubs through the king to Katz's jack. Katz cashed and defeated the contract one trick for 5 IMP's when his counterparts in the other room took the save in 5S.

Kamil and Fleisher stopped in 2H with 24 HCP and a 5-2 fit.

At the other table, Levin and Weinstein pushed to game. Weinstein did well to judge 4H in deference to 3NT.

4H is lucky make for sure with the heart queen onside and the suit split 3-3 in the opponent's hands. Willenken made it easy for them by leading a trump, picking up his partner's queen at trick one. From there, the play went routinely, declarer collecting five hearts, four diamonds and the ace of spades.

Poor Katz. After the brilliant lead on board 7, he is faced with this hand. Again, his partner had raised his suit, so he thought it likely partner held the diamond king or more than three card length. He chose the diamond ace. This was fatal.

Katz found the best play at trick two of a heart to Nick's ace and a heart. Unfortunately for Katz, Fleisher only needed to ruff one diamond. A spade was played to the ace and a diamond was ruffed. A spade was led to the king and declarer claimed ten tricks. +790

At the other table, Rosenberg led a less flamboyant jack of clubs. This gave declarer nothing. Levin ruffed in hand and played a diamond out of hand to Rosenberg's ten. Rosenberg promptly shifted to hearts. Willenken won the heart and played a second heart. Levin, now needing to trump two diamonds since he did not get the benefit of the diamond ace lead, was one trump light.

He played a spade to his hand, ruffed a diamond and conceded four tricks. Down one.

Willenken and Rosenberg had a simple auction to bid the slam. Perhaps Rosenberg's direct 4S bid over the double showed more than a minimum. He could have passed with a minimum.

Willenken drove to the slam over that bid. Weinstein led his spade deuce. Rosenberg led the ace of diamonds followed by the king of diamonds, ruffed by Levin. Levin exited the club five and Rosenberg took the finesse. Rosenberg played a small club off the board, Weinstein pitching a heart, and Willenken ruffing. Willenken played his two high trump and a diamond to ruff in dummy.

He could pitch a diamond on the ace of clubs, and the fall of the JT_x of hearts made his hand good.

The play was the same at both tables: South led his ace and king of hearts and eleven tricks were claimed! It seems odd at this high a level of competition to have a top partnership bid a slam in face of two losers in the opponent's overcalled suit. On the other hand, Weinstein was likely to have five for his overcall and Levin was certain to have four for his jump. That left Rosenberg with no more than one. You have to sympathize with Chis on this one.

Against 4S, Nickell led the club king. Kamil played a spade to the ace and the jack of spades to the king. He finessed the diamond jack, losing to the king. Nickell took his king of spades and exited with his queen of clubs which Kamil ruffed. Kamil cashed the ace of diamonds and claimed 11 tricks.

At the other table, Rosenberg and Willenken took the club save against 4S.

Levin led the deuce of clubs from the A92. Willenken won his six in hand and took ten tricks for down one.

In the Closed Room where Nickell was declarer from East, he received the eight of diamonds opening lead. He put up the queen from dummy and Rosenberg covered with the king. Nickell won his ace and played a heart to the king and took the losing spade finesse. He was doomed. He needed to get the heart right for the pitch of the club. Willenken played a diamond to Rosenberg and Rosenberg played a club through the king. Nickell lost two clubs, one diamond, one spade and one heart for down two.

In the Open Room, where Zia was declarer from West, Rodwell led the club jack. This held and the club ten was continued to the king and ace. Meckstroth played his club queen which declarer ruffed. Zia played the four of spades to the ace and a small spade off dummy, Meck winning his king. A diamond to the king and ace followed. Zia led the jack of hearts off dummy. When Meckstroth ducked, so did Zia. He played a heart to the king started running spades. He eventually led a heart to the board and when the suit split 3-3, he was home free with 10 tricks.

Rosenberg did really well to choose to play in 6NT. No one could sneak in and get a ruff on the opening lead. They scored up their easy 12 tricks, losing only the ace of spades.

In the other room, Meckstroth passed the choice to Rodwell. Perhaps his club and diamond kings should have steered him in the right direction, however, he made a choice a lot of players would make: his AKQxxx. Martel led the queen of clubs. Zia ruffed and returned a spade. Martel won the ace and continued clubs. Zia ruffed again ... and when the smoke cleared, Rodwell was down two.

The day ended with 36 Nickell—96 Fleisher... the second segment going 70-1 Fleisher. Nickell has his work cut out for him tomorrow! There are still a lot of boards to play!

Baseball Joke #1: Little League

Coming home from his first baseball game, Tommy swung open the front door very excited. Unable to attend the game, his father immediately wanted to know what happened. "So, how did you do son?" he asked.

"You'll never believe it dad!" Tommy said. "I was responsible for the winning run!"

"Really? How did you do that?"

"I dropped the ball."

Baseball Joke #2: Little League part 2

"Look, Tommy," the coach said, "you know the principles of good sportsmanship. You know the Little League doesn't allow temper tantrums, shouting at the umpire, or abusive language."

"Yes sir, I understand."

"Good, Tommy. Now would you please explain that to your mother?!"

Baseball Joke #3: Insane Fans

A doctor at an insane asylum decided to take his patients to a baseball game as a part of the therapy. For weeks in advance, he coached his patients to respond to his commands. When the day of the game arrived, everything seemed to be going well.

As the National Anthem started, the doctor yelled, "Up Nuts" and the patients complied by standing up. After the anthem he yelled, "Down Nuts". And they all sat back down in their seats. After a home run was hit, the doctor yelled, "Cheer Nuts". They all broke-out into applause and cheered. When the umpire made a particularly bad call against the star of the home team, the Doctor yelled, "Booooo Nuts!!!" and they all started booing.

Thinking things were going very well. The doctor decided to go get a beer and a hot dog, leaving his assistant in charge. When he returned, there was a riot in progress. Finding his assistant, the doctor asked, "What in the world just happened?" The assistant replied, "Well, everything was going just fine until a vendor passed by and yelled "PEANUTS!"

Baseball Joke #4: National Anthem

A Spaniard name Jose came to Miami and wanted to attend a baseball game to see what the fuss is all about. To his dismay he found that all the seats were sold out. However, the management gave him a high seat by the flagpole. When he returned to his home country his friends asked him, "What kind of people are those Americans?" He said, "Very nice people, they gave me a special seat at the baseball game and just before the game started that all stood up and sang 'Jose can you see.....'"

Puzzle Page ...

Five friends pooled their resources one day and pieced a CD together from songs they had written. They called their band Frozen Cabbage and ended up playing a number of live gigs at local events. Determine the full name of each band member, the instrument (or mixing console) each played, the brand of equipment each used, plus each member's favorite magazine.

1. Steve wasn't the sound engineer. One of the women enjoyed EQ magazine.
2. Angie and Steve didn't like Recording magazine. The bass player used Ibanez equipment.
3. Mr. Magnus didn't use Mackie equipment. Mark's last name wasn't Hydal and he didn't play keyboard.
4. The sound engineer, whose last name wasn't Engel, enjoyed reading Mix magazine. The person who used Yamaha drums wasn't Robert, but their last name is Hydal.
5. The five band members (in no particular order) were: Mark Scott, the female bass player, the person who read Musician, the one who used Peavey equipment, and Robert.
6. Shelley's last name was not Hydal or McArthur and she didn't use Roland equipment. Mackie only developed equipment for live sound and recording NOT musical instruments.
7. Steve McArthur was the guitarist.

Answer
on Page 6

Committee 1:

There was a committee held regarding board 12 on the final of USA2.

Levin was North; Rosenberg was East; S Weinstein was South and Willenken was West

With NS Vulnerable, W dealt, the auction was as follows:

1D-P-1S-P
4C-X-4S-P
6S

There was disagreement about the time the tray took to come back after the X/4S Calls.

North South asked, for a ruling. After the director determined there was a BIT, he conducted a poll with four players polled, and only one moved towards slam. The director thus rolled back the score to 4S making 6.

East West appealed. West and South attended the appeal. The appeal was heard by conference call.

There was some dispute about the length of time it took for the tray to return. At the table, East agreed there was a BIT, North South thought it took approximately one minute. West wasn't sure how long it took, as he was considering his hand, and planning his auction. He did suggest witnesses who were watching on BBO thought the BIT was closer to 30 seconds.

West also suggested that the return to 4S was not fast arrival, as they play in low level auctions that a return to the trump suit, after a cuebid is doubled is not weakest, that a pass is their weakest action. Their notes were silent on this or similar auctions.

East, at the table, did say he thought the return was the weakest.

West also claimed that the double of 4C marked the king of hearts in South's hand, making slam even better.

North South argued:

1. The Break in tempo was 1 minute, and seemed to be agreed at the table, that there was an unmistakable BIT.
2. While it is playable to use slow arrival at the 2 level, 'no one' plays it thus at the 4 level.
3. The response of 1S at these colors (EW were favorable) could be a 'Psych' or a "joke" hand.
4. West had no 5 level safety opposite such a hand.

The committee felt:

1. There was a an unmistakable BIT.
2. The BIT suggested further action.
3. Passing was a Logical Alternative.

Therefore, the committee upheld the directors ruling, +480 EW

The Committee felt the appeal had merit.

After Rosenberg showed his singleton spade, North/South cuebid their way to a good slam.

Willenken did not know that his diamond ten was such an important card. He knew that partner's ace of hearts would provide a discard for one diamond and he would be able to trump spades. With great clubs and the diamond king, Rosenberg bid the slam. Finding the queen of diamonds was easy since Katz had shown length in both majors.

At the other table, Rodwell and Meckstroth settled in the club game. They had less information since the opponents raised spades and then jumped to game using up most of the bidding space.
